BRECKENRIDGE NEWS.

Joe. D. A. V. G. Babbage, Editor and Proprietor.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 5, 1904.

SIX PAGES.

A convenient work day and night—Sundays too. It is like money at interest.

It is now practically settled that the G. A. R. encampment of 1905 will be held at Louisville.

The Brown-Graham-Wickfield mobile is given in full in another column. Read and draw your own conclusions.

In Louisville wants the trade of Breckenridge county she must buy Breckenridge county has to sell.

Passenger Cleveland has at last named a Democratic politician for Russellville, Ky. Michael S. Clark is the fortunate man.

Col. J. O. Hodge in his strong appeals for Breckenridge, is not helping his chances for the office of Public Instruction.

The best brick and the best asphalt, for paving streets, produced in the world are both found right here in Breckenridge county.

The election of Breckenridge would be a disgrace not only to the people of the famous Blue Grass region but to the whole State of Kentucky.

MORGANFIELD has just voted $30,000 to assist in building water-works, by a vote of 321 to 17, and Morganfield is not as large a town as Cloverport.

A MAN who wants to work can find it in this town. No one whining about this, that or the other thing. Go to work and quit your moaning.

It is the times to seem a little hard, it should only appear a young man to be doing his best. His energy and faithfulness to duty will outlive any sort of a panic.

Dr. Cottrell preached a fine sermon in the Elm-street Methodist church Sunday night. It was the sixty-fifth anniversary of his birth, but he is trying to keep this fact from his hearers.

We have the local gatherings of thirty new correspondents in this issue of the Breckenridge News, and if you don't see what you want, rest assured that it will appear next week.

Tax national Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds has made a favorable report on the bill, appropriating $30,000 for the enlargement of the United States Custom-house at Owensboro.

When it comes to a good looking brigade and hard workers at a fire, the people of Cloverport cannot be surpassed, but the time will come when it will be beyond the power of such means as this to save us.

This report of Breckenridge's speech and the incidents of the occasion which appeared in the Courier-Journal of last Sunday was a clever piece of reporting and was the work of G. T. Watkins, city editor of that great paper. Mr. Watkins is a fine journalist.

That women are at least the equal of men in becoming more fully demonstrated every day. The female city treasurer of Fort Scott, Kan., left $200,000 in her account, and has been suspended pending an investigation of her recent comings. She has probably been "blowing it in" in her career.

Mercer's disappearance in Owensboro and vicinity have almost become an epidemic. The latest is James Dyer, a young son of T. J. Dyer, a well-known farmer of the Elm neighborhood. He disappeared from home last month and has not been heard of since. His father offers a liberal reward for his apprehension.

We hope the good people of the Presbyterian church do not think for a moment that our failure to notice their beautiful and highly enjoyable entertainment given at their church last week was intentional on our part. It was purely an oversight for which we now ask and pray forgiveness. May the Lord bless the church, the excellent fund committee and give them abundant property in the good work in which they are so earnestly and busily engaged.

STANFORD is the greatest bicycle town in this section. There are now owned and ridden here—hundreds of them.

It seems that it is not much of a bicycle country up there. There are now sixty-three bicycles owned and ridden in Cloverport, and this is a much smaller place than Stanford; besides we have some of the best and most graceful lady cyclists in the state. Stanford, however, should not be discouraged; if she will get a little bustle on her, she can catch up with the procession.

The Hardinsburg Democrat is dead again. We are not surprised to hear it. The people of Breckenridge get their news in their city papers, and the Breckenridge News and they don't care for any other medium. We publish the news from all sections and for all parties, Democrats, Republicans, Populists or what not. No matter from what source or what section, it's the news the News publishes it. It's the people's paper and right nobly do they stand by us—papers may come and papers may go but the News goes on giving the news and nothing but the news—in good times and hard times just the same.

HARDINSBURG.

L. H. & W. TIME TABLE.

Passenger Daily car, Hardinsburg, 12:15 p.m. daily.

Passenger Daily car, Hardinsburg, 7:40 a.m. daily.

Crab cider at R. E. Mattingly's. Brown's excursion Saturday May 20th. Cigars and tobacco at R. E. Mattingly's.

J. Hays went to Brandenburg last Saturday. Brown's excursion Saturday May 20th. Wait for it.

Mr. Morris Earls has purchased a new Jersey cow. Mrs. V. G. Babbage is visiting at Louisville this week.

The best brands of cigars and tobacco, at R. E. Mattingly's. Mr. J. G. Stephens, Holt, was in the city last Wednesday.

The best of order always maintained on Brown's excursions. Stop at the Hamilton House when you go to Hardinsburg.

Mrs. Thomas McClure was visiting at Jolly's station last week. Mr. Silvester, from Point of View, was here a few days last week.

They are carrying out a good deal of timber on the branch now. Confectioneries of all kinds, fresh and nice, at R. E. Mattingly's.

We have a patent to speak on moderate prices—T. C. Lewis & Co. Beard & Brown have dissolved partnership in the hatching business.

We are here, not for profit simply, but for trade—C. D. Payne, Harlan. Spot cash helps us save you money.

T. C. Lewis & Co., the jewellers. The District Conference meets at Vine Grove, Ky., May 23rd to the 26th.

A good second hand phonograph for sale or trade. C. H. Harnett. Miss Anna Smith returned Sunday from a three weeks visit to Oxford.

For a good lunch go to R. E. Mattingly's, on south side Court-house square. It is bad to use too much soap, but it is worse to use too little in advertising.

Don't forget the date of Brown's excursion to Louisville. Saturday May 20th. Rev. S. K. Breckling will fill his regular appointment at Webster next Sunday. Circuit Court begins next Monday. There are forty-four new cases on the docket.

Mr. Sam Board came up from Cloverport last week to see his mother and his best girl.

Don't forget the 10th of July celebration on the "branch." Look out for bills—Burling & Co.

B. F. Beard & Co. think they will build a large two-story brick business house this fall.

The date fixed for Julian Brown's next excursion on the "branch" is May 20th. Get ready for it.

Mr. Charles Lyons and wife, Jolly's station, were visiting Mr. McClure's family here last week.

Big day at Louisville Saturday May 20th. You can go there for only $1.00 on Brown's excursion.

The Breckenridge County Democrat, published at this place, dropped out of existence last week.

No business realizes its highest purpose which does not afford the people bargains—Harlan and Bro.

If you want to forget that such a thing as hard times existed, pay a visit to our store—T. C. Lewis & Co.

We know our watches are right. We want you to know it. We want your watch trade—T. C. Lewis & Co.

Mrs. Mary Garrett, of Alexis, Illinois, arrived last Monday to see her sister, Mrs. W. H. Bell, who is quite ill.

No man who has any respect for his pocket book can help feel for it when he sees our prices on groceries—Harlan & Bro.

News was received here last week that Mr. J. B. Skilman was about to lose his eyesight. It is probably caused from rheumatism.

We always give a heaped-up, pressed-down overflowing measure of value for every dollar spent with us—Harlan & Bro.

NORTH FORK OF ROUGH. We are having some nice weather now.

Fruit is all killed in this neighborhood. Both to the wife of John Mattingly, April 20, a boy.

Mrs. Mary Bell is visiting her son, Mr. Huse Polk this week.

Mr. Wm. Polk and wife visited Mr. and Mrs. Huse Polk last week.

Mrs. Wm. Trickett and little son were guests of Mrs. Huse Polk, Monday.

Children's Day at Cave Spring church this Sunday in May. Everybody come. Sabbath school began at Cave Spring last Sunday. Rev. Street preached Sunday night.

Remember Brown's excursion to Louisville, Saturday, May 20th. Only $1.00 for the round trip.

Miss Lucy Nohette, who is teaching our spring school, is having great success and the pupils all seem to think there is nothing like Miss Lucy.

The Hamilton House is preparing to accommodate all the Circuit Court visitors. A splendid meal and a good bed in what you will get at this popular Hotel. Harlan & Bro. are the proprietors.

Mr. M. Meyer, of Burns, wants the public to know that he is in Louisville this week, purchasing a stock of spring goods and he wants you to wait until he returns before purchasing elsewhere.

To be sure I don't want to make a great profit off these people on my stock of new goods, but a small profit is better than sitting down this time and doing nothing. I will have the goods and they must go—M. Meyer, Harlan, Ky.

The News is read with as much eagerness by the people of Hardinsburg, now as of the first year. It was published News day always brings out a big crowd to the post office and a copy is carried into nearly every family in town.

Mrs. W. H. Bell died at her home in this place Monday evening at 5 o'clock. She had been in bad health for some time, but her death was rather unexpected, as so soon as she was a member of the M. E. Church, South, and a very estimable lady.

Major Henry T. Stanton, of Frankfort, will lecture here next Monday night. The lecture is under the auspices of the Epworth League of this place. We can assure those who have the pleasure of hearing the Major, that they will be highly entertained.

The County Board of Health met at Harlan one last week, and came to the solemn conclusion that the bulk of disease killed up all around that since we are an injury to the public health, and would breed typhoid fever, and other diseases. They recommended that they should be moved.

In the "In and About" column of the Courier-Journal, it was stated last Monday that Mr. Charles Harlan would make the race in this district for the Republican nomination for Congress, against Hon. John W. Lewis. I saw Mr. Harlan at Irvington last Monday and questioned him about the report and he said it was a mistake, that he would not contest the nomination with Mr. Lewis at all.

Mr. M. Meyer, of Burns, went to Louisville on the train last Monday to purchase a spring stock of goods. Mr. Meyer and his son-in-law, Robert McGuffin, have dissolved partnership, but Mr. Meyer will continue business at the hotel, and will take his stock, much larger this spring than heretofore. He will continue a system of low prices and guarantee satisfaction to all his customers.

The street, in this town, leading from Major Scott's corner to the depot promises to be the most important of any in town. Already the bulk of travel is done over it, and it should be made better improved street in the town. The trustees have spent some money on it, but more could be used to an advantage.

The trustees in particular need attention and there should be a better drainage. Mr. Thomas McClure says he will forward his resignation as Postmaster this week. This will open up a lively scramble for the place. Some three or four parties want it, but the contest will probably be narrowed down to Joe B. Cox and Deputy County Clerk, Mr. Thomas McGuffin. Both are lacking with good petitions, and you can make your own guess on the winner. Mr. McClure proposes to resign and get out unless he can give entire satisfaction.

There is now Catarrh in this section of the country than at other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a constitutional disease, and therefore required constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Mr. James Hampton and son, Clate, of Falls of Rough, have broken up house-keeping and gone down on Green River to the next rise.

Deans John Stillwell and Wm. Titcher have run three traps of saw-logs to the Falls of Rough this winter and have a raft of ice all complete waiting for the next rise.

Geo. Gotsendanner came down from Louisville last Saturday to look a few days with the boys.

BRANDENBURG.

Charles Caperton is spending several days at home. Mrs. J. K. Dittus was in Louisville last week to shop.

Mrs. John Harlan is still quite sick, but cheerful and hopeful. To the wife of Hon. Chapin A. Wathen we all offer our best wishes.

Mrs. Allen and daughter, Blanche, are visiting Mrs. Blanche Fontaine. Mrs. Jess Clarkson and Miss Ladd Clarkson, were in town last Thursday.

Miss Mary Ella Ashcraft, at in Canon & Co., Louisville, to learn the millinery trade.

The Sewing Circle of the P. E. Church met at Mrs. S. P. Woolfolk's on Thursday afternoon last.

Mrs. W. H. Richardson, of Louisville, has been quite sick for some time, and is still confined to her bed.

Miss Lillie Yeckel returned to Louisville last Thursday after a month's stay with her brother, Mr. Ed Yeckel and wife.

Miss Mary Toney spent Saturday and Sunday at home. Mary will graduate from Hampton College the first of June.

Now about it at the time. A harvest of girl babies continues—in a few years a migratory season where of opposite sex has fallen.

Mrs. McMeister and daughter, Mrs. Nettie Kerfoot, of Oklahoma, are at Judge J. F. Woolfolk, also his daughter, Mrs. George Fyngin, of Union Mar.

Large Congregationalist greeted Bro. Cherry in his beautiful new church last Sunday. It is considered by competent judges to be one of the handsomest little churches in the State.

Miss Jennie Woolfolk has been in delicate health for some time. I am glad to know she is somewhat improved and her many friends hope the warm settled weather will entirely restore her.

Grady Maule's generous offer of sympathy are appreciated as well as our Irvington correspondent. Every thought that ties through our brain is heard in Heaven. God bless wisdom, long-suffering, love, aspirations, self-suffering and things. Much of our best praying is done when we sit at God's feet and do not speak at all, but only let our hearts talk. Take this feeling, all of you my friends, in response to the many letters that I cannot answer.

In my walk with Mrs. Richland last Saturday, to the cemetery, I notice since I was out last, that Mrs. C. W. Williams has been raised another story, painted and looks pretty and comfortable. Mr. John Bell's house has a new coat of paint, and his young orchard is just beautiful, a ten-acre fence surrounds it, every tree white washed, and the ground cleared of all rubbish.

It seems a little strange in the future, Mr. Selatman's house will be quite handsome when done, and all of it helps this dear old town.

Shining on the hill tops, smiling over the meadows, come beautiful spring. All nature is rejoicing at his presence. The grasses and flowers have taken on a brighter, richer hue and the sky seems more than ever before. Everything is charming in its reawakening to promise of good things to come. May its influence be reflected in many, many hearts bringing forth blossoms of the mind and heart, making the home, life and the world around us, brighter and better. And even to us whose lives are so full of sadness and suffering that future happiness is impossible. May its sweet influence bring a soothing balm, a calm, gentle peace resting in the thought of the time when all shall be perfection in one eternal spring.

Two disciples were walking to Emmaus. The name of only one of them is given, and we conclude they were not distinguished persons, but quiet, everyday people like you and me. "But Jesus himself drew near." He saw they were sad, perplexed, anxious. He gently drew out their confidence to tell Him all there was in their hearts. This is a comprehensive theme. All hope, comfort, strength, peace, joy, righteousness, every good and perfect gift, must come from this confidence. He is sent to heal the broken-hearted, to comfort them that mourn. He brings his own words of comfort through human lips. His own healing touch by a human hand, but oh, when you are sighing for "The touch of a vanished hand and the sound of a voice that is still," through the comfort of a friend and Titus, the messenger. The wants of the soul are so hard to reach and when it still longs for the love and sympathy of one beyond recall, we are shut away from seeing God or hearing Titus. Crooms? Yes, so many and such different aids. I remember a little book I read a long time ago when I had no cress, but now the pictures on those little pages I find are indelibly impressed.

On the first page was a representation of a young man and a young woman, and on the ground lay a cross that He was evidently trying to persuade her to pick up. On the next page she looked as if she had picked it up. I suppose I shall have to take it up." She said a string to it and dragged it, (like a snail) to it, while the saviour looked on in sorrow. On the next page she had taken it up, but with such a will that it did her no good. Then she placed it on her shoulder, but it averted her face. She finally turned her face to it and raised it higher. But I cannot forget that last picture and pray to be like it. She had taken her cross from her shoulder and had her arms around it, holding it close to her heart and her face was uplifted. The "delectable mountains were not far away and the light from the upper city streamed down on her face."

A smile was on her face and her heart was where it brought her strength. So I am taught by this that the only way to take the sting out of any cross is to hold it close and set your face toward it, but to do it—the how. Such a spirit of obedience is required—such a Christ spirit—such a Christ love.

OVER JORDAN.

Mrs. Nancy McPherson Dies at the Home of Her Son. Age of Ninety-two.

Mrs. Nancy McPherson died at her home in this city at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, the 8th inst.

She was one of the oldest, if not the oldest, person in this section of the country. She was born in Nelson county, Virginia, Nov. 28, 1801, which makes her at the time of her death, in her ninety-third year.

Her husband was a long and beautiful life. She was married in Virginia in 1819 to John Witt and emigrated with him to this state some years afterward. She was the mother of William and Richard Witt and Mrs. Malinda Camp, all of whom are now respected and honorable citizens.

Her first husband died in 1834, and she afterward married Joseph McPherson. This union was blessed with two children, one of whom, Mrs. John Culley, of Louisville, was present and helped to make pleasant the last earthly moments of her dying mother.

Mrs. McPherson, joined the Baptist church and was baptized in Virginia in 1834, and she has ever since remained a faithful and consistent member of that church. Her life has been remarkable for the beauty of her kind, christian spirit.

The funeral services will be held in the Baptist church at 3 o'clock this afternoon, after which the remains will be interred in the Murray cemetery.

Drowned in Green River.
Henry C. Jolly, of Stephenoport, was drowned in Green river, near Tumney, Sunday. We could not obtain particulars as the telephone wires are down. He was in the employ of the Cincinnati Cooperage Company rafting staves and in some manner got into the river. His body was recovered and he will probably be buried at Indian Station.

He was a stepson of Samuel Gilbert, of Stephenoport, and was a son-in-law of "Squire R. B. Cox, of Union Star. He leaves a widow and two small children.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 9, 1904.

SIROCCO.

My dreams of late are of a disturbing nature, visions of a meeting house, lamps flashing in my face, while the distant sound of a maelstrom voice or the wailing wail in the ear of his better half "There is Sirocco my darling, art thou a day?"

L. C. Frigo, Paynesville, is agent for Phoenix Taranto and Life Insurance Company, Hartford, Conn. The Smith was solicited to make an independent race for the office of justice of the peace against D. R. Hayes, the Democratic nominee in District No. 4. But he's a man with a great deal of foresight and thinks a great deal of the past also. He has a penetrating mind that penetrates into the dim vista of the future and sees no pie in store for him. He is concluded to turn his attention to poultry raising, together with the insurance business and bookkeeping. He wanted me to give him a send off in the way of an advertisement and I've done the best I could with the material I had. Ha, ha, he is a man about as fair play old man. You was shooting it to me the other day about the Democrats and turned right around and asked me to give you an ad. Go on.

Broader, did you ever "beard the lion in his den, the Douglas in his hall"? I did. 'Twas the night of the 10th of April. I'll tell you how it happened.

Having heard that an expedition of the Free-Presser was holding a meeting at Cold Spring, I ventured forth hoping to hear an interesting sermon and if possible, to gather some items for the News. Imagine my surprise on entering the school house where the meeting was being held to see standing upon the rostrum, little in size, but the principal of the late Cold Spring trouble. When I noisily entered the crowded house he looked up from his book at me as though prompted by intuition, seeming to be cognizant of the fact that Sirocco was entering. When our eyes met a cynical smile passed over his face and I knew right then that the time of retribution was close at hand. I looked around for the "Rock of Ages," but could see no figure sufficient to hide myself in, although there were mountains of rock reaching clear to the river. His scrutiny was of only momentary duration, his eyes returned to the book he held, he finished reading his text which contained the following passage:

"Leave the ninety and nine and go after the one that has gone astray."

He then offered prayer to Almighty God, asking Him to direct his speech that night, after which he called on the congregation to sing. He then took the "Lord's Prayer" for a text (never referring to his first text a single time), and jumped onto me with both feet, and to the audience expressed it and left the house that night happy in the thought, and even boasting of having demolished Sirocco. This never "beard the lion in his den," but he never got there, and so you don't forget it.

"There was a laughing devil in his face
That evening he looked so queer,
And when his face of hatred darkened fell,
Hope withering fled and mercy fled."

Brother Miller, do you think there was a laughing devil in your sneer when you called me a poor little fellow? It is, ha, ha. Could you have stood up there that night before the people and slapping your hands on your breast crying "I've got my brother 'Argwhright, I've got,' as you did in the meeting house just across the road?"

I looked for him to attempt to give us some pointers on the "Vine," but the "Lord's Prayer" was such a beautiful one had no room for anything else. One would infer from the theosophist version of the Lord's Prayer that it was only intended for the benefit of the people of the people of ancient days. According to his theory of this prayer the bible was intended for the ancients only and we see not in it a little bit of what we need to tell you all that Brother Miller and Sister Babler, and Sister Babler's parents and grand parents will all come to the conclusion by the time that Sirocco is done with them that modern sanctificationists are not in it, and they will be preaching a different doctrine or else preparing to migrate to a country where people are still bawling in the sunshine of ignorance.

Be it understood that Sirocco is in it, and will be the belt when the struggle comes to a "reef."

"There is a sword which hath his quiver
Just,

And he that hathed though backed up steel
Whose conscience with injustice is con-

scoured."

"Twas a custom among the ancients when waging war against a certain nation of people who were extremely superstitious, to gather together as many cats as they could get hold of, and when they were ready for an attack on the enemy, drive the feline squad before the advance guard. Their manner of proceeding worked like a charm. The enemy dared not advance into the ranks of the opposing forces for fear of killing a cat.

It seems like the modern sanctificationists are trying to ward the same plan on Sirocco, but Sirocco is not at all superstitious. With all deference due to the fair sex, and though ready and willing at any time to stand up for his lady's cause, he cannot stand idly by while husbands and fathers force their wives and daughters upon him, given them sticks to crack his head with, using them as a shield for their own protection.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she liked the Castoria.
When she became a Woman, she still used the Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

tion. Oh no, but should the battle cry of modern sanctification, he will cut them down in order to get them out of the way so he can get to the better side, and when they have been laid in the dust by the destructive winds of Sirocco, then let the masculine expounders of modern sanctification stand forth in all their glory and see how long they will withstand the contest.

Sirocco is no Patroclus clad in the armor of Achilles, he will prove himself a veritable Achilles by the time this war is over. See if he don't "for they shall gnaw a file and flee to the mountains of Cold Spring, where the lion roars and the wangle-cloze moutheth for its first born."

"Fetch on another how" turn those another broadside, throw your red hot lead into Sirocco. She's "spiles" to lick somebody. Hop to her, you cowards, hypocrites, hoodlums—Gee whiz! is there nothing I can say, that will induce you to spunk up? Am I got too pride, so self respect? I beg dare you, just to sneeze even. Ochoo! there is nothing in them. I knew it all at the start. Let the curtain drop then on an unfinished scene. Tell the world that when they down the gauntlet yourselves and then it was taken up, you refused to fight.

You can "bounce" a fellow in a backwoods schoolhouse, but when it comes to an open field, where the eyes of the world are upon you, you've got business to stand up and fight. Shame on you, you cowards.

War! on scribblers and every form of impure blood is boldly declared by Hood's Sanaparilla, the great cure for all blood diseases.

GARFIELD.

Our farmers are about through planting corn.

Clarence Board says he prefers a "bell" to all other music.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Compton is ill at this writing.

Miss Annie Richards, of Cold Spring, was Sunday with Miss Lydia Mary.

Miss Mary McCoy, of Irvington, attended Sunday School here Sunday.

Rev. H. C. Hook preached a funeral at Pleasant Grove to a large crowd Sunday.

We will have preaching at our "tabernacle" the third Sunday night in this month.

Remember Brown's excursion to Louisville, Saturday, May 26. Only $1.00 for the round trip.

Mr. A. J. Richardson was heard singing in the choir last Saturday morning.

Misses Mollie and Iva Board, of Custer, were visiting their aunt, Mrs. Fannie Board last week.

Mr. James Holder of Skillman, came Friday to accompany Miss Letitia Frymire home. She will return Monday.

Mr. Amos Board and Miss Eva Henley, of Hardinsburg, were the guests of Misses Nannie and Katie Board Sunday.

Misses Nannie and Katie Board entertained a crowd Friday night in honor of their guests, Mr. James Holder and Miss Letitia Frymire.

We have a splendid Sunday School organization at this place. The superintendent being Rev. M. P. Compton who will make it very interesting for our young people.

There is nothing I have ever used for muscular rheumatism that gives me as much relief as Chamberlain's Pain Balm does. I have been using it for about two years—four bottles in all—a season required, and always keep a bottle of it in my house. I believe I know a good thing when I get hold of it, and Pain Balm is the best I have ever met with. W. B. Deany, dairyman, New Lexington, Ohio, 50 cent bottles for sale by A. H. Fisher, Cloverport, Ky., and Kinchloe, Meador & Co., Hardinsburg, Ky.
